PRESIDENT TAFT WILL SOON BE IN DILEMMA

His Position on Wool Revision Bill Places Him in an Awkward Position—Whether He Vetoes it or Not He Will be in Corner With no Way to Turn.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 15.—Unless something can be done by the Republican regulars in the Senate the President soon will be face to face with the most serious political issue of his whole administration.

This was realized today when two Republican and one Democratic Senator called at the White House and told him that the wool bill would pass the Senate. If this is true President Taft will either have to veto the wool bill and go before the country with an apology or else he will have to sign it and repudiate his previous statements to the effect that no wool revision would take place until after the tariff board makes its report.

The President's friends no longer try to avoid the seriousness of the situation as it involves Mr. Taft's political future. Should he veto the wool bill they fear he can never explain the act to the country. If he approves of it they say he would be in even a more awkward position.

YOUNG LADY DASHED TO INSTANT DEATH

Two Others Injured, One Fatally, in Tram Car Wreck.

Special to Telegram.

Covington, Va., July 15.—Without a second's warning while enjoying a ride here last night on a railroad Tram car Miss Cynthia Munday, aged 22, of Springwood, Va., was dashed to instant death. Miss Myrtle Pshaet, of this place, was probably fatally injured. She was at once taken to the hospital at Hinston, W. Va. Miss Lula Young, of Fincastle, Va., was badly bruised, but was able to walk back to her sister's, near the town where she and Miss Munday were visiting. J. H. Wheeler, who was on the rear of the car, was slightly bruised. Mr. Wheeler has charge of the electric signals on the C. & O. Railway at this place and last night he had some business about two miles west of here and took the ladies with him. About 1 mile west of here the switches were set against him and he did not know it. While running about 15 miles an hour he crashed into the open switch which resulted in the terrible accident.

THE BLUE AND GRAY HAVING BIG REUNION

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 15.—In the presence of Taft, members of his cabinet and many prominent in affairs of the United States wearers of the blue and gray will meet in the reunion of the battle of Bull Run next Friday. Survivors of both armies will be drawn in two lines, badly depleted since the famous battle of 50 years ago and slowly march towards one another. As the two lines come together in marked contrast with the meeting half a century ago the old soldiers will grasp the hand of a man on the opposite line and extend a handclasp more eloquent than words to show their mutual admiration and regard. The celebration which has been named the Manassas National Jubilee began last Monday and will end next Friday with an address by President Taft. The celebration is in commemmoration of the first great battle of the Civil war.

WICKERSHAM HAD EVIDENCE BUT HE DID NOT PROSECUTE

Alaskan Coal Fraud Investigation May Put Him in Close Place.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 14.—That Secretary of War Dickinson was furnished with the same evidence concerning Alaskan frauds as was furnished Attorney General Wickersham in 1910 and that he never acknowledged the receipt of the document was the statement made today by Delegate Wickersham of Alaska who has caused the House committee on judiciary to urge an investigation to find out why no prosecution was instituted on the evidence but permitted a statute of limitations to run.

When Secretary Dickinson was succeeded by Henry L. Stimson Delegate Wickersham wrote him a letter, inclosing copies of affidavits of H. J. Douglas former auditor of the Northwestern Commercial Company, telling of the fraud through which the government was defrauded of $50,000 on a coal contract. On June 6, 1911, Delegate Wickersham received a reply from Secretary Stimson acknowledging the receipt of the evidence and enclosing a report of the quartermaster general, acknowledging that the same evidence had been submitted to the department before and called to the attention of Secretary Dickinson May 28, 1910. The report further showed that in November, 1910, Fred McNamara, representing the attorney General's office, examined the papers in the war department, but that nothing more was heard of the matter in that department.

In his letter of June 1, 1911, to Secretary Stimson, Delegate Wickersham called attention to the papers sent a year before and said that the statute of limitations had been permitted to run, adding that there was still a duty to be performed in the exposure of the party and a suit to recover damages. Secretary Stimson wrote to Wickersham immediately notifying him of his correspondence with the Alaskan delegate and inquiring about the case.

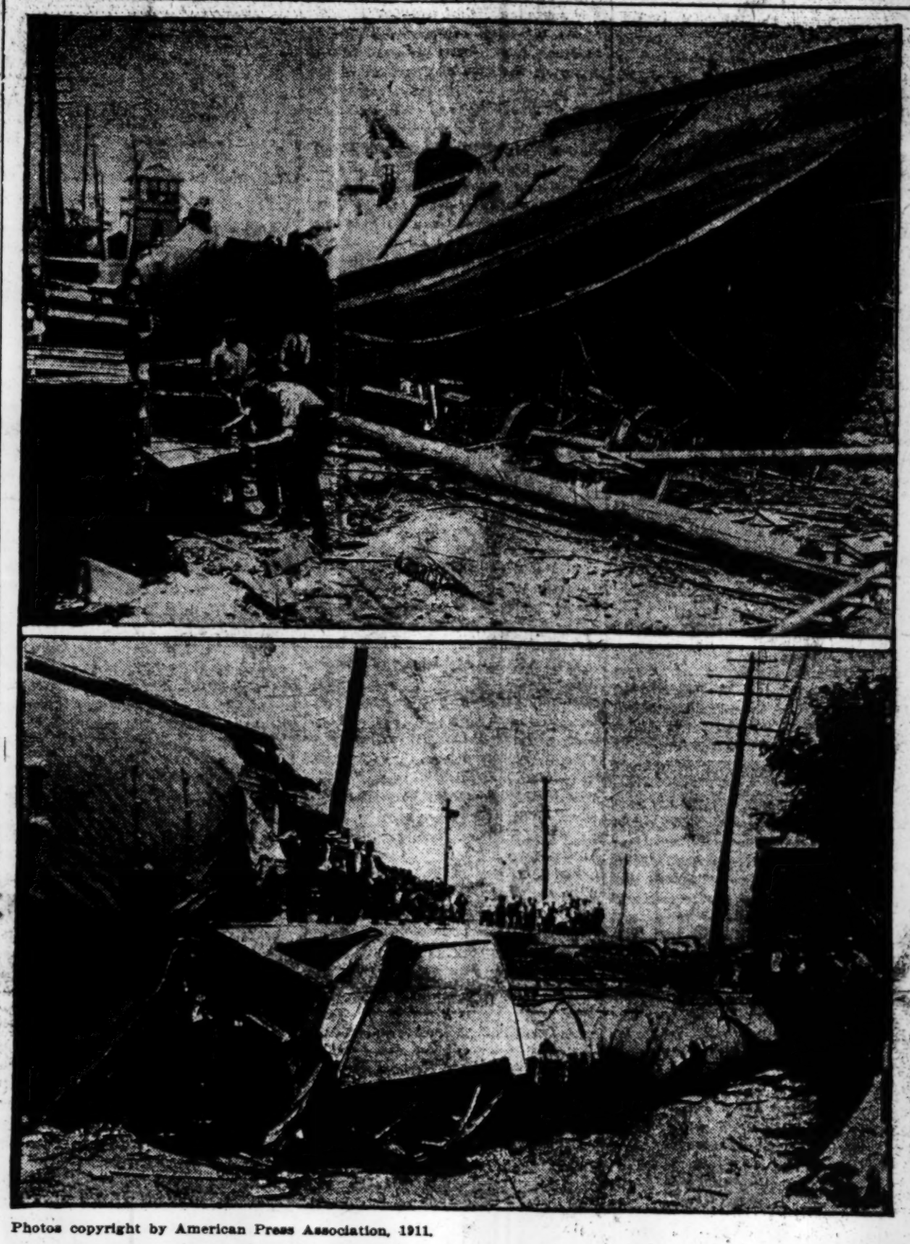
In a few days after this, June 13, 1911, Delegate Wickersham received a letter from the attorney general informing him that the statute of limitations had run on the same charges against Capt. Jarvis and J. H. Bullock, accused of combining to defraud the government on the Alaskan contract.

Delegate Wickersham furnished the committee with a copy of the letter from E. G. Hawkins, general manager of the company, to H. J. Douglas, then auditor of the company, asking the latter to send at once I. J. Goryer, counsel for the company, $2,000 for confidential use. "I have evidence," declared Delegate Wickersham, "that this money was used to bribe the deputy district attorney; that this is the kind of matter I have been vainly trying to get this government to investigate and prosecute.

LEE BEGINS FIVE YEARS SENTENCE.

Atlanta, July 15.—Edward Valentine Lee, former paymasters clerk on the battleship Georgia, who pleaded guilty in Buffalo, N. Y., to the charge of having stolen $46,000 of the ship's funds, began today a five years sentence in the federal penitentiary here. Lee's first visit here was under the name of Carmichael when he made a reputation as a liberal spender. He was married to a Washington, D. C., girl while in custody in Buffalo.

First Pictures of Wreck at Bridgeport, Conn., In Which More Than a Score Died and 70 Were Injured.



Photos copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

The engineer, who died at his post, is held responsible for the wreck of the fast express train near Bridgeport, Conn., the most disastrous accident in the recent history of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad. The train, which was bound from Washington to Boston, was an hour behind time, and the engineer was trying to make up some of the lost time. He was traveling at the rate of a mile a minute at a point where the rules call for a maximum speed of fifteen miles an hour. When the train struck a "crossover" switch connecting the two eastbound tracks it was thrown down an eighteen foot embankment, and several cars were smashed. Twelve passengers were instantly killed and seventy were injured, several of them so badly that they died later. The pictures show two views of the wreck immediately after it occurred.

SUGAR

Trust Pays Its Price For Raw Sugar Says John Dymond, Cane Planter.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 15.—John Dymond, the cane planter of New Orleans, today told the House sugar investigating committee that the cane growers of Louisiana are at the mercy of the American Sugar Refining Company, which buys raw sugar arbitrarily, paying its own price. Mr. Dymond said there is now no competitive buying in New York, as practically all the buyers who have not been brought into the combination by the trust have maintained an armed truce except the Federal Sugar Refining Company which he said is credited with being an independent concern.

Mr. Dymond favored the maintaining of the present tariff on sugar and said that an elimination of protection would bring the sugar men in competition with the cheapest peasant labor of Europe. The witness said that most of the laborers he employed were negroes whom he paid $1 per day.

To Remember Employees.

Special to Telegram.

Yonkers, N. Y., July 15.—Among 27 employees who have worked for 20 years or more with the Yonkers Tool Factory here $35,000 will be distributed as a memorial gift from the widow of Leslie Saunders, the founder of the firm.

PLACING BLAME FOR WRECK OF THE FEDERAL EXPRESS

Special to Telegram.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 15.—Declaring that there were certain paramount features of the wreck of the federal express in this city that no testimony, however strong, could change Federal Inspector O. C. Tesh, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, said late this afternoon that he and Inspector H. J. Swasey had obtained all the information they desired and that they expected to leave for Washington tonight. "We yet have three witnesses we would like to see before we leave. If we can get hold of them today we will leave for Washington at once," he said.

While the inspectors refused to talk about the developments of their investigation it is the general opinion that they will place the blame of the wreck upon the operation of the train.

BIG PNEUMATIC MAIL TUBE FOR CINCINNATI.

Special to Telegram.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 15.—Cincinnati is to have the largest pneumatic mail tube in the country. Bids for a 30-inch tube to run from the railroad terminal to the main postoffice will be offered the second assistant postmaster general on August 31. It is the opinion of the postoffice officials that such a tube will greatly facilitate the handling of the mail. The tube will give almost instantaneous service and because of its size mail can be sent in bulk from the trains to the postoffice.

RACE

With Death in Special Train Across Continent Now Being Made.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 15.—Pitted against death a Chicago and Northwestern train hauling a special hospital Pullman in which Mrs. Luke Lea, wife of Senator Lea, lies critically ill is today rushing madly across the whole continent. Denver, Col., with its high altitude and rarified air must be reached within the next few hours or death will win. While the race for life is being made Senator Lea's host of friends in this city who had thought of the young husband's act of giving his own blood at Georgetown hospital that it might save Mrs. Lea's life are anxiously awaiting news.

Physicians say that if the train bearing Mrs. Lea and her husband arrives in Denver on time there is a chance to save the life of Mrs. Lea. The race began Wednesday night.

After Mrs. Lea had rallied by reason of the transfusion of her husband's blood she was taken to Deer Park, Md., where for a few days the transfusion did it work and she was improving. Last Monday she suffered a lot and began to sink rapidly. Physicians became alarmed an ordered her immediate removal to Denver.

DISRUPTION OF THE CABINET THREATENED

Row Over Attempt to Oust Dr. Wiley Has Assumed Proportions Never Dreamed of—Enforcement of Pure Food Law Was Interfered With.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 15.—The row kicked up over the attempt of the enemies of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley to oust him from office has assumed proportions never dreamed of by the men who are back of it. It has spread with amazing quickness until it fronts the administration with grave political dangers.

It threatens to disrupt the cabinet. It has stirred a large portion of Congress into a fighting fit and it seems certain the result will end in the sweeping overhauling of the administering of the pure food law.

Coincident with the attack on Wiley with the purpose of forcing him out of office there is thrown into the limelight some of the outlines of the system whereby the stringent enforcement of the pure food law has been interfered with. That this system will be investigated in all its details before the work of the House committee on expenditures in the department of agriculture is completed there is not the slightest doubt.

ENGINEER HAD NARROW ESCAPE YESTERDAY MORNING

Moulton Avery, of This City, Dashed Against Engine And Painfully Hurt.

Moulton Avery, Southern engineer, running between Salisbury and Selma, sustained painful injuries yesterday morning about 8:30 o'clock at Burlington, while his engine was standing at the station. Mr. Avery was standing on the driving rod engaged in oiling the parts of the engine at the time that the accident happened. In some unaccountable manner the throttle was suddenly loosened, the wheels began to revolve, and the driving rod, rising quickly, dashed Mr. Avery against the running board immediately above. He was painfully bruised on all his limbs and back and the left foot was cut to the extent of requiring several stitches to draw the wound together.

Mr. Avery was in charge of a special freight with engine No. 708. He made the stop at Burlington and while attending to the oiling of the mechanism had the narrow escape from death. Destruction between the wheels was imminent and the wounded man can make no explanation of his marvelous escape. Assistance came quickly and the engine stopped, when another minute of motion would probably have meant death. A substitute engineer from this city went to the scene and brought the engine in, bearing the wounded man. He was carried to his home on South Mendenhall street and Dr. E. R. Michaux rendered medical attention, dressing the wounds and cuts. The injured man rested quietly yesterday and though suffering considerably from the bruises especially he is in no danger and is recovering nicely. He is expected to be entirely well in about two weeks time.

SPECIAL SERVICE FOR PYTHIANS AT WHITE OAK.

There will be a special sermon Sunday at White Oak, delivered by Rev. S. E. Richardson to White Oak Lodge, No. 187, Knights of Pythias, at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. All members of the order in Greensboro are invited to be present.

RALEIGH MAN GUILTY OF SIMPLE ASSAULT ON WHITSON GIRL

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, July 15.—The jury returned a verdict of guilty of assault and battery on a woman in the case against Turner Smith, on trial for criminal assault on Lillian Whitson, while out driving with her. By a special act of the last Legislature for simple assault on a woman the punishment may be as much as two years in the penitentiary. Smith will be sentenced Monday.

CHICAGO LABOR MEN ARE STILL IN JAIL.

Chicago, July 15.—Simon O. Donnell, president of the Chicago Building Trade Council, James Darvis and Thomas Kearney, all business agents of the Steamfitters Union, charged with conspiring to murder Vincent Altman, alleged labor slugger, will have to remain in jail, according to Judge Honore, who said he would have to wait until Monday before he acted upon their application for bail.

DISTRIBUTION OF ASSETS OF STANDARD OIL

Attorneys State The Plans Have Been Completed.

Special to Telegram.

New York, July 15.—Attorneys for the Standard Oil Company admit that they have about completed the plans for distributing the trust's assets but no time has been set for filing it with the United States court at St. Louis. As the courts are now on their vacation the plans may be held until the October terms begin.

Standard Oil interests are much more favorable inclined towards the stock market than they were a few weeks ago and this in spite of the fact that the trust's conditions are not nearly so good now as they were earlier in the season. This fact justifies the opinion that the Standard Oil people were bearish largely for the purpose of accumulating stock. Activity of tobacco trust securities during the past week leaned to rumors of some plan for distributing tobacco assets but nothing definite was learned in that respect.

NAMING OF AMERICA COMMEMORATED

Special to Telegram.

St. Die, France, July 15.—Elaborate ceremonies today marked the second days celebration of the commemoration of the naming of America. Robert Bacon, the American Ambassador, presided. Representatives of the Latin American republic participated. The principal ceremony centered around a placing of a memorial tablet on the house where the name America was first conceived and written. Ambassador Bacon in his address dwelt particularly upon the friendliness that has always existed between France and the republics of the western continent.

Three Die By Gas Suffocation.

New York, July 15.—Julia Calia and her two daughters, Angelina, and Anna, aged 16 and 17, were found dead on the floor of their bedroom in Brooklyn today, suffocated by gas. The police have not settled whether their deaths were accidental or a case of double murder and suicide. All the windows were shut and the gas was flowing from an open jet.

"LOOKING TO THE PEOPLE" FOR OFFICE.

The Charlotte Observer and the Spartanburg Herald have started a discussion of the political methods of Senator T. S. Martin of Virginia, who is a fine representative of the class of machine made politicians which has for many years been so common in this country. The Herald says:

"Senator Tom Martin of Virginia, is a man after the Charlotte Observer's own heart, and we are not surprised that that paper asks the question in the paragraph below.

"The Observer says: 'Discussing the Virginia senatorial contest The Spartanburg Herald remarks: 'Mr. Martin has never had to look to the people for his office.' If the primary of 1905, in which Senator Martin defeated former Governor A. J. Montague by 10,000 votes, was not 'looking to the people,' pray tell us what it was.'

"To a man as far away as North Carolina that might look like 'looking to the people.' As a matter of fact, Senator Martin, as we say, has never looked to the people of Virginia for his office. In the good old days he looked to the legislature, and since he has looked to his lieutenants in the different parts of the Old Dominion. The senator is a genius for organization and for holding his organization together.

"When Senator Martin goes out 'among the people,' he transacts his business with them in a room in some hotel in the town, surrounded by 'the people,' who, in advance, have been notified of the number of the senator's room. Not so with the late Senator John W. Daniel. When he went among his people they knew of his coming and met him with bands of music in the public square. He looked for his office to the people and held it through their affection and esteem."

Those who are familiar with the game of politics as it has been played in this country will readily picture from the above the class to which Senator Martin belongs. Happily for the welfare of the country this class is rapidly growing smaller, and the public servants who really look to the people to elect them to offices instead of looking to the political bosses and the machine organization is steadily growing larger. It is becoming more and more difficult for any man to secure office merely by assembling the bosses in his room at the hotel or in his office and there planning to have a majority of the votes delivered at the ballot boxes in his name. Formerly this was often possible because of the fact that the leaders in the wards or townships or counties, as the case might be, did the thinking for a great many of the voters and the voters blindly followed the leadership of the bosses, voting the way the latter dictated. This custom does not prevail now to the extent it did in former years. The majority of the voters are doing their own thinking and are giving little attention to the direction of the bosses. In fact, in some sections of the country, the job of the political heeler and the boss are vacant for the reason that it no longer pays the politicians to hire men to fill these positions. The tendency throughout the country is in that direction, and may the day speedily come when this condition of affairs will prevail everywhere.

As to Senator Martin of Virginia, he is undoubtedly a machine made United States Senator and, therefore, no honest and independent voter will regret his passing from public life whenever that event transpires. Senator Martin is not a bad man and his presence in the Senate is not as obnoxious to men of progressive ideas as the presence of the standpat Republican leaders, but the fact remains that Martin does not measure up to the standard of the best type of statesmanship; and when the time comes for him to look to the people for reelection instead of looking to the political leaders, he will probably cease to represent Virginia in the United States Senate.

It is said that the favorite song in Salt Lake City is Homes, Sweet Homes.

Senator Bourne says the United States Senate has been made to look like a beer garden. Root beer garden, no doubt.

Somebody has called Castro the "international flea." However, it was not because he is fleeing all the time.

"Don't judge the town by the ball team," advises the Atlanta Journal. That is good advice—in Charlotte, too.

Richmond has a strike of taxicab drivers. Richmond is making a desperate effort to assume metropolitan airs.

Emma Eames has married again, but Emma can never hope to eclipse the record made by Nat Goodwin. She only marries semi-annually.

It is a little early to begin Christmas shopping, but it will be well to begin to look around for the Thanksgiving turkey.

"Is the crab a progressive?" asks the Baltimore Sun. Here is another the Sun can answer, if it pleases: Is Senator Simmons a crab?

There has not been enough rain in most sections of the State this season to make the grass grow. Therefore, the farmers have at least one thing to be thankful for.

Senator Heyburn's outbreaks no longer startle the country. Nothing less than the announcement that Heyburn has been destroyed by spontaneous combustion will ever again secure top of column, first page, for him.

Governor Deneen was before the Lorimer investigating committee for hours, but he did not know anything. It is strange how the men in the best position to know about the Lorimer scandal learned so little about it.

Postmaster General Hitchcock thinks that by raising the pay of the rural carriers he has removed the last obstacle to the adoption of the parcels post. The Postmaster General speaks hastily. Has he considered the express companies?

Miss Matilda Moisant, the younger of the two sisters of the late John B. Moisant, the aviator who was killed while flying a monoplane, has determined to learn to fly in the same type of machine which cost her brother his life. Miss Moisant is evidently a young woman of extraordinary courage.

The Atlanta Journal, noting the fact that Atlanta's ball team is entirely out of the pennant race, says that the people of that city will have nothing to attract their attention from the gubernatorial race in Georgia. This is further evidence of the fact that the chief industries of Georgia are politics and baseball.

Those South Carolina folks who are looking forward to Christmas as the next event on the calendar have entirely overlooked the autumn opening of the schools, Labor Day and Thanksgiving and cotton picking and corn gathering time. Perhaps they go to sleep down there after the Fourth of July and do not awaken until Christmas.

Any intelligent citizen who will make an impartial study, free from all elements of self interest, of the protective policy of the Republican party, from which this country has suffered for several decades, will come to the conclusion that the policy of high tariff schedules is wrong. The only tariff which can be defended is a revenue tariff and that, in some cases, should be displaced by no tariff by placing the article on the free list.

Mr. Bryan's list of men "available" as Democratic presidential standard bearer in the next campaign omits mention of Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio. Harmon would be a stronger candidate than nine-tenths of the men named by Mr. Bryan, but it will be understood, doubtless, that he is not "available" from the Bryan standpoint. It is not probable that Harmon will be nominated, while he will be one of the foremost candidates for the nomination, but Mr. Bryan should have included him among the men able and willing to lead the party in the next campaign.

The enemies of Dr. Wiley are after him and they are going to make a strong fight to take his scalp. The doctor's enemies are to be found principally among the men who sell fraudulent patent medicines, adulterated drugs, and adulterated food products. Doctor Wiley's successful campaigns against the adulteration of foods and drugs and his unrelenting fight on frauds in these lines has aroused the enmity of a number of men who are engaged in defrauding and faking the public, to the great injury of the people generally. It was to be expected that these classes would sooner or later make an organized effort to oust Dr. Wiley from office. His removal would be a victory for these undesirables and a great blow to the public welfare.

Congressman William A. Jones of the First Virginia District is going after Senator Martin of that State in a fashion that is likely to cause the Senator some uneasy days and nights. Jones charges that Martin's election in the first place was secured by the railroads; that he has voted with the Republicans in the Senate more often than with the Democrats; and that he is the successor of Aldrich in the leadership of the "special interests" representatives in the Senate. All Congressman Jones says may not be true. The public will consider his utterances in the light of the fact that he is seeking Martin's seat in the Senate; but it is true that much of what he charges can easily be shown to be false if it is untrue and there is evidently some fire where there is so much smoke. In view of the exposure which is being made of Senator Martin's record, it is not surprising that honest leaders of the Democratic party so greatly regretted that he was honored with the leadership of his party in the Senate.

Statewide Prohibition.

In the last two years, I have been in thirty-seven States, and after a thorough and most careful examination, I can truthfully say that in the States that have Statewide prohibition—though there is some violation of the law, and some persons who, by permission of the interstate commerce law, have shipments made to them of liquor from other States—the drink evil is fifty per cent less than in States having high license, and even thirty or forty per cent less than where there is local option. Take, as an example the State of Kansas. Its governor sees that the law is enforced, and with the exception of towns and communities bordering on States where liquor is allowed to be sold, one scarcely sees any indication of liquor selling, and the people are sober and industrious. Take my own State of North Carolina; I know there is not one-half the drinking in the State today that existed under the old system; and it was amusing when a leader of one of the political parties recently gave as a reason why our statewide prohibition law should be repealed, that the people who drank were getting tired of having to go all the way to Virginia to get a little booze. The very class that we desire most to protect from the liquor habit, being unable to order, or afford the expense of going after it, are compelled to be temperate; and now we hear less complaint from employers, and from fathers and mothers, of the drinking of their employes and their children.—Ex-Governor R. B. Glenn, in Winston Sentinel.

Lets Have It.

Says the News and Observer:

"The proposed railroad from Henderson to Greensboro, via Oxford and Roxboro, would traverse one of the finest sections in North Carolina. It would be a blessing to Greensboro, to every town and the fine agricultural section through which it will pass."

The News and Observer is entirely correct in thinking that the building of this road would be a great thing for every section of country through which it would run. The Henderson Gold Leaf also has a word to say in reference to it, which very wisely urges more activity upon the part of Oxford and Henderson citizens. Should the road be built and carried by the more northerly route, as the Gold Leaf intimates, there is a possibility that it might, there is no telling the damage that we might sustain. We see how Henderson went to sleep at the switch and how Norlina grew up when she was in the somnolent condition, with the result than another town grew up elsewhere that should have been a part of the Vance capital.

It is stated on very excellent authority that there is no question of the feasibility of building the road and that it will pay well, the question of raising finances for the construction being the only matter under consideration. Locally, more interest must be taken in it, for it looks as if it will surely be built somewhere before very much longer.—Oxford Ledger.

The Barbarity of Schedule K.

In the Senate on Tuesday Mr. Bailey of Texas, vainly exerted his dialectic skill against such an antagonist as Senator John Sharp Williams to prove that taxation of crude materials of American industry is in accordance with the principles and policy of the Democratic party. If there were no other argument for free raw materials, the fact that they are free in the tariff schedules of every industrial rival of the United States ought to be convincing. So long as this difference exists American manufacturers affected by it must remain at a disadvantage compared with their European competitors. In that alone is sufficient appeal to intelligent selfishness as well as to the spirit of patriotism. As for Senator Bailey's protective tariff on crude materials "for revenue only," that is too absurd for any party.

But for the stupid barbarity of Schedule K, with its average duties of nearly 100 per cent on the woolen clothing and blankets of the American people, there can be no excuse. Against this monstrou iniquity the Record has pleaded these many years. In the first place, it is encouraging against sound public policy an enormous contraband traffic in woolens. Next, this schedule is stimulating an immense adulteration of the woolen clothing of the American people with cotton, shoddy and other materials. When all the wool, domestic and imported, is gathered by the Woolen Manufacturers' Association (which supplies its statistics to the government bureaus), the total sum, after deducting the materials for carpets and horse blankets, does not exceed a pound and a quarter of pure woolen fabrics a year for each inhabitant of the United States. While the finest fleeces of Australia and Argentina freely flow off to the mills of Europe, their passage to this country is obstructed by the tariff. As a consequence Omerican manufacturers must make large substitutions of cotton and shoddy adulterants or close their factories.

Above all, schedule K is a cruel attack upon the health of the American nation under climates carying from tropical heat to Arctic cold. Two eminent physicians of Senator Bailey's State of Texas, recently quoted in an able speech of Representative Randell, have shown in a most sympathetic spirit the effect of the duties on woolens upon the health of the people, especially of children, in diminishing their supplies of warm and comfortable clothing.

Yet in the Senate debate of Tuesday Elder Smoot, of the theologico-industrial establishment of Utah, took occasion to squawk out: "Go ahead and pass your wool bill. It will give us cheap labor, cheap men, cheap food and everything else that is cheap.'" This was echoed by Senator Warren, arepresentative of the sheep-growing syndicates of the Rocky Mountains. Strange to say, there are multitudes of worshipers of the fetich of Protection who are silly enough to believe what emanates only from the lowest spirit of selfishness and greed.—Philadelphia Record.

TWAIN BEATS SHAKESPEARE.

Humorist's Name Finds Place on St. Louis Million-Dollar Library.

Samuel L. Clemens has laughed his way into the elect of literary fame in St. Louis. He is the only Missourian represented and one of only six Americans whose names stand emblazoned on the facade of St. ouis' new million-dollar public library.

Shakespeare, whose name in these modern days has been greased with Bacon, is lost to sight and memory dear, and he finds no place upon the tablet of literature's elect. Instead, his famous contemporary, for whom Shakespeare's genius is claimed, is honored.

For the edification of the public these names are blazoned forth upon the stone:

For America—Emerson, Irving, Hawthorne, Franklin, Clemens and Longfellow.

For France—Balzac, Racine, Moliere, and Hugo.

For Germany—Goethe, Schiller, Kant, Lessing and Mommsen.

For England—Darwin, Thackeray, Tennyson, Milton, Addison, Scott, Macauley, Goldsmith, Byron, George Eliot, Bacon, Defoe, Ruskin, Carlyle, Burke, Burns, the Brontes (Charlotte Anne and Emily Jane), Dickens and the Brownings (Robert and Elizabeth Barrett).

BARNUM STRONG MAN DEAD.

Charles Jefferson Used to Snap Chains Girt About His Chest.

Charles Jefferson, who was Barnum & Bailey's strong man 25 years ago and who used to pose for Saint Gaudens and other sculptors, died of apoplexy on Wednesday night in the street at Third avenue and Fourteenth street. He lived at 205 East Fourteenth street in the old-time actors' boarding house neighborhood.

Jefferson was about six feet two inches tall and in his best days had remarkable strength. He snapped chains linked around his chest, lifted enormous weights and was one of the attractions of the circus in the days when side show performers had their greatest vogue. His first circus job was as an acrobat, but he drifted naturally into feats of strength.

Fred Burton, once a celebrated trick performer on high wheel bicycles, had been a friend of Jefferson for many years. Burton said yesterday that when the strong man quit the circus business he took with him at least $30,000. He made lots of money and saved it until he got out in the world and began to speculate in stocks.—New York Sun.

An Advertisement Is Your Cheapest Salesman

The chances are that if you go into almost any store in a country town, at the present time, and tell the storekeeper that his cheapest salesman is his advertisement in the local newspaper he will laugh at you. He will laugh because he does not know what salesmanship means. It is the mere showing of his goods to any customer that has the good luck to come into his store, according to his lights. He does not realize that it is possible for customers to be enticed to his store to actually demand goods that they never thought they wanted before.

It is a comparatively easy matter to sell a woman or man goods when you have them in your store and can lay the wares right in front of them. In such a case much more than nine-tenths of the selling act has already been accomplished by the coming of your customer to the store. Even then a salesman who can get big results in the store is classed as high-grade, and his salary, no matter how large, is considered a reasonable expenditure and, in many cases, cheaply spent.

To cause a customer to have a desire to come to your store, where no desire existed before, requires salesmanship of a high order. Such salesmanship makes new customers—builds your business and lays, in short, the foundation of your fortune. No retail business of modern times can make a great success without such salesmanship—without, in other words, the proper utilization of space in your local newspaper. Considering the results this kind of salesmanship obtains, it is the best and cheapest you can buy.

This efficient use of space in your local newspaper has been called salesmanship on paper. If you fill in the space with forceful matter that will create attention, cause conviction and bring results, you have an addition to your sales force that may surely be called the best promoter on your staff. The results that are obtained from this salesmanship depend on the selling ability used. But no matter what results are obtained, the quality of salesmanship necessary is much greater than that required inside the store.

The big mail-order houses reckon that they must pay so much money for every inquiry they get. The amount of this sum is ascertained by dividing all the money spent on advertising and selling literature by the number of letters received in answer to the same. This refers to inquiries only. Not every inquirer becomes a customer. The securing of actual customers costs more. The money that has to be spent to get one new customer by those concerns would astonish the local retailer. It is usually not less than the amount spent on several weeks' advertising by the average local storekeeper. The salesmanship on paper that is necessary to do all this is the finest that can be got for money and it is considered cheap at the enormous price paid for it because it is engaged in building up a big mail order business with new material.

The local retailer can apply a lesson from this to himself. If those mail order houses spend so much money to get one new customer, why should a retailer not make an effort in the same direction? Why should he not adopt the same means of attractive salesmanship on paper? If he can bring even one new customer a week to his store with an expenditure that is many times below what a mail order house has to pay for getting the same results, it is worth while paying closer attention to this successful method of selling. If he can influence more than one customer, and it would be poor local newspaper advertising indeed that could not do that, he would be accomplishing far more than the mail order houses with their highly paid selling experts. And, as a business man he could congratulate himself on a good investment. He could say to himself that he had in his advertisement the cheapest salesman on his force.

It is, of course, not always possible to readily get this strong, convincing selling matter in your newspaper space. You may not be able yourself to write it and you may not have any local person to whom you can turn. But that need not deter you. There are now on the market one or two syndicated advertising services that are designed especially to suit cases like yours. These services are supplied in a series of fifty-two advertisements with accompanying copper-plate engravings, one for each week in the year, at prices ranging from one dollar per week up. Many of the advertisements have been classed by authorities as equal to the best that have made success for the big city department stores and national advertisers. Reduced facsimiles of several of these advertisements will be seen at the top of this column.

The advertisements shown above have received many testimonials from experts. For instance, Wm. H. Ukers, President of the Grocery and Allied Trades Press Association of America (a combination of the entire American Grocery Trade Press) and editor of the Tea and Coffee Trade Journal, New York, writes:

"I consider your advertisements the best I save seen in a long time."

The Retailers' Journal, Chicago, writes:

"We believe the samples of your advertisements sent us are the best we have ever seen."

After expressions like these from men who have spent long lives amongst the kind of advertising that has built fortunes for the shrewd users, the local merchant who neglects the opportunity now offered him to obtain some of these success making announcements is missing the chance of his lifetime.

The business manager of this paper will be glad to supply further particulars of the syndicate whose specimen ads adorn the top of this column, and I advise early application as only one of these services will be supplied to each storekeeper in his own town.

"KID" McCOY'S "DECALOGUE."

Former Pugilist Frames "Commandments" for Sanatorium.

Norman Selby, otherwise known as Kid McCoy, having fought 125 ring battles without ever being badly battered and generally with victory as the issue, has decided to become a "doctor of physical science." Selby, as he prefers to be called, has been studying and practicing his system since February and he says he has in that period gained 25 pounds in weight, added four inches to his chest measurement, reduced his waist eight inches and, most remarkable, grown an inch and one-quarter in height.

A straightened spine and correct breathing are, he says, the principles which spell health. He has settled here and he will put the principles into practice in a sanitarium. He has framed 10 "health commandments," nature's laws, he calls them. Here they are:

First—Thou shalt keep thy backbone straight.

Second—Thou shalt use all thy lungs all the time.

Third—Thou shalt drink half a gallon of water daily.

Fourth—Thou shalt take sufficient nourishment.

Fifth—Thou shalt masticate thy food properly.

Sixth—Thou shalt sleep eight hours daily.

Seventh—Thou shalt cleanse the body daily.

Eighth—Thou shalt walk three miles daily.

Ninth—Thou shalt think pleasant thoughts and banish unpleasant ones.

Tenth—Thou shalt praise the Creator for the result these laws bring and tell thy neighbor.

Parson's Poem a Gem.

From Rev. H. Stubenvoll, Allison, Ia., in praise of Dr. King's New Life Pills:
"They're such a health necessity,
In every home they should be,
If other kinds you've tried in vain,
USE DR. KING'S
And be well again. Only 25c at Fariss Klutz Drug Co.

"Why can't you pay your wife more alimony?" demanded the judge. "You have nobody but yourself now."

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. PICKING MAN FOR VICE PRESIDENT FOR DEMOCRATS

Gentlemen Who Seek First Place Not Disposed to Accept Second—Exciting Contest Next Year For Democratic Nominations.

(By JONATHAN WINFIELD.)
Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 15.—Politicians of Congress all agree that next year will witness one of the most exciting races for the presidential Democratic nomination that party has known for forty years, and now they are beginning to realize that there will be a second fight This will centre around the aspirations of the various "possibilities" for the vice presidency.

If it were not for the fact that so many of the Democratic leaders want to head the ticket and insist that they must be first or not at all, the question of filling the second place would be a simple proposition. It could be some such ticket as "Wilson and Harmon" or "Harmon and Wilson" or "Wilson and Folk" or "Harmon and Foss."

But nobody imagines that either Governor Wilson or Governor Harmon would be satisfied to bring up the rear. Both of them want to the main standard bearer, and in this ambition they are not alone. Governor Foss of Massachusetts has intimated to friends that he would not take anything short of first and the same is true of former Governor Folk of Missouri.

As for Speaker Champ Clark, the vice presidency presents no attraction for him. He would rather be Speaker any day than be vice president. In his present position he is a positive force in the process of law making. If he were to take the office of presiding officer of the Senate, he would be only a passive force.

The fact, therefore, that all of this big timber is bent upon leading the ticket has caused many of the Democratic leaders now in Washington to cast about for somebody to take the second place—somebody who would feel honored with the position and who would not assume that he was doing his party a favor by allowing his name to go on the ticket.

As the wiser politicians see it, there are two men in the party who would fill the vice presidential bill on the Democratic ticket in every particular. They are Foss and Folk. For instance, if an eastern man were nominated for the presidency—Woodrow Wilson it might be—Governor Folk would be the ideal man for the next place. He is a westerner and the geographical demands, which always weigh in making up a ticket, would thereby be satisfied.

If, on the other hand, a western man wins out in the next Democratic national convention, like Governor Harmon or Champ Clark, Governor Foss, being an easterner, would seem to qualify as no other man in his section. He has carried a strong Republican State and is looked upon as the most forcible of all the New England Democrats.

But both of these leaders have aspirations for something bigger than the vice presidency, and it is not in the least likely that either of them would consent to any program that did not place them at the head of the ticket. Governor Folk has the indorsement for the presidency from his own State, and has been a candidate for more than four years for the honor of leading the Democracy of the nation in the battle of the ballots in 1912. It is not thought now that he can be easily persuaded to yield to his old friend but political rival Speaker Clark.

Governor Foss is not in the same position exactly, but he is equally ambitious to be the presidential nominee. His friends say that nothing could induce him to take anything short of the highest honor, and they say further that they will back him to the last in this ambition. They maintain that he is decidedly of presidential calibre, and that it has now been a long time since New England supplied the candidate for the presidency from either party.

Inasmuch, therefore, as these leading lights will devote their time to scrambling for the higher honor, the lesser leaders will fight it out for the vice presidency. Among the available timber for this position on the ticket are Governors Baldwin of Connecticut, and Plaisted of Maine, both easterners. Then there are Governor Marshall of Indiana, Governor Shafroth of Colorado, and Francis J. Keney, the graft prosecutor of California, all of them westerners.

This does not complete the South's interest in the next ticket. There is no doubt that the South will demand one of the places in the gift of the next national convention. This section has too long done nothing but produce the votes for the party's candidates. Now it proposes to produce at least one of the candidates.

In view of the eminent availability of Clark, Wilson and Harmon for the first place, it is obvious that the South could get but the next best place. Accordingly Southern politicians have already begun to cast about for possibilities. Virginians have put forward former Governor Montague and former Congressman H. St. George Tucker. Marylanders are supporting Governoor Austin L. Crothers; Georgians, Governor Hoke Smith; Tennesseeans, former Governor and former Congressman Benton McMillin, and North Carolina, Julian Carr.

There are a multitude of old "war horses" in the South who will be put forward as "favorite sons" and who will be backed for the second place, provided of course the South does not win the first place.

This makes the contest for the vice presidential nomination all the more promising of excitement. Of course there will be a fight worthy of a fighting party when the time comes to name the head of the ticket. Everybody knows this and everybody is even now lining up for their man. Most of this work will, however, be done before the convention. State delegations will be pledged to Harmon, Wilson or Clark before the climax comes, relieving the situation at the convention.

But few delegations will be pledged to vice presidential candidates. Only the States putting forward a candidate will instruct its delegates whom to vote for for the second place. It has always been customary for the convention to be footloose in regard to the second place in order that it may adjust itself to conditions which cannot be foreseen.

MONEY WEARS OUT QUICKLY

Enormous Wastage Through Circulation on British Gold and Silver Coins.

It is the duty of each loyal subject of the British crown not merely to refuse gold coin that is under a certain weight but to break it.

"Every person," the act reads, "shall, by himself or others, cut, break or deface such coin tendered to him in payment and the person tendering the same shall bear the loss."

But in spite of this act it is a risky business interfering with coins which you may suspect to be under weight or spurious. Some months ago a Grimsby woman offered a half sovereign in payment of goods to a local shopkeeper. The latter put the coin in a testing machine, and as it broke in two, refused to take it.

The coin, however, was pronounced by experts to be perfectly genuine, and when the case was taken into a court of law the shopkeeper was ordered to refund ten shillings to the customer.

Money, both gold and silver, wears out at a startling rate. It is reckoned that there is usually a hundred million pounds in gold coin in England, a very large proportion of which is locked in the strong rooms of banks. Yet of that which is in active circulation the wastage is so great that during every twelve months seventy thousand pounds worth of gold and silver are rubbed off into fine dust.

Why He Is a Vegetarian.

"Then to be converted you must have gone through an excess of sin, just like St. Augustine?" For a seasoned warrior was refusing all meats at dinner and choosing the vegetables. And he told why in answer to the casual question. He had been besieged in Mafeking. There was nothing but meat to eat there for quite a long time. He ate meat for weeks on end. And he does not want to eat any more. "Pass the potatoes, please!" And Baden Powell has become a vegetarian just because he had to eat too much meat.—London Chronicle.

Philadelphia Children Attend Outdoor School on House Roof

Photos by American Press Association.

FEW children like to go to school, and many of them are glad of an excuse to skip their lessons even if the excuse takes the form of a slight illness. But if they had such a school as has been started in Philadelphia it is likely that the books would be more attractive. This particular school is located on the roof of a house, and the children are practically out of doors while learning and reciting their lessons. There is a roof over the "schoolroom" to serve as a protection from the sun as well as from possible rain, but the children are as nearly outdoors as the weather will permit. Miss Grace Phelps, the teacher, takes a personal interest in each of her young charges. They are not only taught the learning that is in books, but they acquire much practical information as well. They are given lessons in gymnastics, as the picture shows, and are taught habits of personal cleanliness that are conducive to health. Each of the pupils gets a toothbrush and a box of tooth powder, and the schooling includes daily drill in the use of these articles.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY'S GOOD ROADS TRAIN

Is Arousing Much Interest in This State—Comes to Greensboro July 25th—In Charge of Experts And Equipped With Specially Fitted Cars.

The "Road Improvement Train" which is being sent out over the South by the Southern Railway and affiliated lines working in co-operation with the government office of public roads for the purpose of stimulating interest in the movement for better highways, is being received by large and interested crowds in its tour through North Carolina, finishing the first week with an exhibition Saturday afternoon at Brevard.

The enthusiasm shown at the ten stops during the week was on a level with the great interest the unique train aroused in its passage through Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and northern Georgia, where in more than one instance actual results have followed the efforts of the experts in recommending good roads as one of the best means of making the section prosperous.

For this week the "Road Improvement Train" will carry its message into the following points: Monday, July 17, 9 a. m., Rutherfordton, Marion at 2 p. m.; Tuesday, Newton, 9 a. m., Morganton, 2 p. m.; Wednesday, Statesville, 9 a. m., Taylorsville, 2 p. m.; Thursday, Mocksville, 10:30 a. m., Winston-Salem, 2 p. m.; Friday, North Wilkesboro, 2 p. m.; Saturday, Mount Airy, 10 a. m., Walnut Cove, 4 p. m.

The remaining points on the schedule which has only been arranged up to August 4th, are: Reidsville, Siler City, Sanford, Greensboro, Asheboro, Lexington, Salisbury, Concord, Albemarle, Graham, Hillsboro, Chapel Hill, Durham, Raleigh, Selma, Goldsboro, Henderson and Oxford. The train is scheduled to visit this city Tuesday, July 25th, arriving before 7:30 o'clock p. m., and at that time the lectures will begin.

The train is equipped with two cars fitted especially for lecture and demonstration and is accompanied by two road experts of the United States Department of Agriculture, Messrs. L. E. Boykin and W. N. Fairbanks, who from wide experience are qualified to give the most valuable information on the building of good roads and keeping them in repair by the use of materials at hand and consequently most economical in various sections. A representative of the Land and Industrial Department of the Southern Railway goes with the train to lend his assistance in the work.

The lecture car contains a stereopticon and screen arranged at the end of the car and views are shown which give point and interest to the addresses of the experts. The demonstration car is filled with working models and exhibits, the former being shown in operation. With this equipment the experts are able to explain road building and maintenance in all its phases, and give many valuable suggestions of interest to the individual.

In running this train the Southern Railway is handling it without charge to the government or the people and all the lectures are free. President Finley of the Southern Railway, is an ardent advocate of good roads believing that their construction will result in great benefit to the people of the South whose interests he considers identical with those of the railway system he heads. The tour of the train began at Mobile May 1st, and before the conclusion the entire territory served by the Southern Railway will be visited.

PROTOPLASM AND DUST

(By HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD)

The religionist and the scientist have but one story to tell when it is sifted down to its last statement, and the protoplasm of one can claim to be nothing more than the dust of the earth of the other.

Being made of the dust of the earth, with all her strange currents kneaded through us, her magnetic, her electric, her finer and her grosser ones, and with her impetus upon us, when we return that dust to her shall it have gained nothing for our possession of it, shall the grosser have endured no refinement, the finer not have become finer still, until in its own vast period all the substance of the great globe itself shall be the better and richer for the life our souls have liven in it?

Whatever be the especial part of the work assigned to humanity, we know that some work it is, since it is contrary to the econom of nature, manifested everywhereelse, that we should be here for any idle purpose; and all we have to do is to follow the open passage and perform the work we find at hand, feeling very sure that if we are doing wrong in nothing else, we are doing right in this, and not only reducing the earth and our portion of it, but, it may be, sending out some of the vital energy of our well-doing to regions beyond—who shall say?

Let what will be false and fanciful, this must be true—that he who does persistent wrong, he who is treacherous, mean, cowardly, cruel, animal and base, is rebellious to the directing power, is betraying his trust, cannot be helping forward the great ends which tend only to light and goodness.

While just as true is it that he who is pure and noble, self-forgetting and faithful, gentle and sympathetic, scorning falsehood, disdaining sensualism, cannot but live in obedience to that directing power, cannot but so have put himself into communication with all the channels of goodness that virtue runs like the blood in his veins, and, little as it may be, he lends his share of strength to the work of lifting the unverse toward its perfect consummation, although it be as insensibly as any single ray of light helps in bringing about the dawn.

Do You Read the WANT ADS?

Have you found out what interesting news is contained in the want page? There is a reason why want ads are interesting to everybody. Supply and demand create a market. The man who has an article which he has no further use for, with the assistance of a little want ad, can find readily the other man who is looking for just that article. On the other hand the man who is looking for some particular article can find the man who has it and who it perhaps has not occurred that he can sell it, thus by means of the want ad purchasers and sellers for small articles get together.

Try a Want Ad in The Telegram, it makes no difference what you want, tell it here.

COMMISSIONERS HAVE CASE UNDER CONSIDERATION

Hearing of Charges Against Faulkner Completed Last Night—He Explained His Shortage While Bursar at A. & M. College—Strong Speeches by Counsel.

The third meeting of the Board of City Commissioners in session concerning the investigation of the fitness of H. H. Faulkner to hold the position of principal of the Percy Street School for negro children was held last night in the city hall with the entire board, Commissioners Murphy, Brown and Foushee in attendance. The conclusion of the taking of evidence was reached and the speeches of Attorneys E. D. Broadhurst, for the defense, and O. L. Sapp, for the prosecution, were heard but no vote or action was taken by the board. Mayor Murphy adjourned the hearing to an indefinite date, which will be decided later, when a vote will be taken in the matter.

As is well known by those who have been keeping in touch with the progress of the investigation the charges preferred against Faulkner in the attempt to prevent his re-election to his position in the school are numerous, including embezzlement, forgery, dishonesty, and incompetency.

The prosecution continued last night with attempt to prove the forgery charge, Tom Foust and the widow of Lee Tyson, of Goldston, being the prosecuting witnesses. Both testified that the woman, who as the widow of Lee Tyson was entitled to receive $100 from the lodge of which her husband was a member, had not received the entire amount and had not signed an agreement giving Faulkner the power to act as her attorney and keep the money in trust as claimed by him. The paper authorizing Faulkner to act as the attorney of the woman was properly signed, and her statement that she had signed the paper was the basis of the forgery charge. This was later refuted, however, by W. E. Allen, treasurer of the Greensboro Loan and Trust Company, who testified that in his presence the woman affixed her signature to a check and the handwriting was the same as on the power of attorney document. He also stated as an expert of handwriting, that the same person who signed. H. H. Faulkner to the check could not write the woman's name as it appeared on the paper.

Prof. W. F. Debner, superintendent of the farms of A. and M. College, was placed upon the stand at the conclusion of the cross-examination of the Tyson woman, and he testified as to the unsavory reputation borne by Faulkner among his people. He also stated that he was certain that Faulkner was discharged from the bursarship of the college on account of the shortage discovered in his books by the finance committee.

Watson Law was the next witness for the prosecution and testified that he had preferred the charges against the defendant because of his belief that he was morally unfit to be principal of the school. He testified as to the bad character of the defendant but brought uot no damaging evidence.

Louis Wilson, colored, testified that among the negroes of the city Faulkner bore an extremely bad reputation.

Walter Hiatt while on the stand corroborated the statements of Tom Foust and Ida Tyson concerning the forgery charge. With his testimony the prosecution rested its case.

W. E. Allen was the first witness for the defense and, as stated above, testified that Ida Tyson had signed the paper empowering Faulkner to act as her attorney. He then stated that the checks endorsed by J. I. Pope and J. P. Pope were done by the same man and could not have been written by Faulkner. Pope is the janitor of the school who testified Thursday that Faulkner had forced him to steal coal from the school and had also swindled money from him. He stated that he had received only a single check and it is the custom of the city to pay employees by checks, several checks being shown to refute his testimony.

Faulkner then took the stand, his testimony and explanations being the most important part of the evening's investigation. He explained that the school was supported by three funds, the State appropriation, the federal appropriation and the general fund, the latter being the money collected from the student body for board, lodging and tuition. He as bursar had control of the last named fund only. The two appropriations were received respectively about May and July. In the spring of the year 1897 all the available cash of these funds was spent and several laborers about the college could not receive their wages under the condition and Faulkner advanced the money to them. The total of these advance payments was $432.56 which was exactly the amount that the A. and M. College records showed had been discovered as Faulkner's shortage by the finance committee. Faulkner declared that the finance committee had examined his books before available funds were secured to repay the advance and, although he offered the receipts given him by the laborers as proof, the committee would not accept them and had rebuked him for his indiscretion. On cross-examination by Mr. Sapp, Faulkner's testimony was not shaken, the plausible tale that he offered exactly fitting the case. He declared that he could not get access to the college books and was forced to get the figures of the expenditures without their help. When questioned about the source of such testimony the negro exhibited the great shrewdness that has characterized the capable defense he is making by replying, "I've got a little book at home that I keep all these things in." With this he refreshes his memory and secures a great advantage of knowledge of the facts, occuring as they did, over 14 years ago. Faulkner also explained that he loaned money to Pope, the janitor, at frequent intervals, and when the checks were paid Pope placed his endorsement upon them and Faulkner gave him the cash minus the loans he had advanced during the month. Nothing was gained in the attempt to throw light upon Faulkner's alleged bad character.

After a statement made by J. B. Dudley replying to the questions of Mayor Murphy concerning the methods of bookkeeping at the college, Attorney Broadhurst began his speech for the defense. He assailed the character of every witness that has appeared against the defendant, and reviewing the charges and the testimony, he declared that not one had been proven even by the evidence of such witnesses. Attorney Sapp then held the floor until 11:45 o'clock and made a strong plea for the discharge of the negro on account of many of the uncontradicted statements of misdeeds that were made against Faulkner. Adjournment was then taken.

SATURDAY'S MUNICIPAL COURT.

Merritt Smith, the hunch back negro convicted of retailing, yesterday in Municipal court paid a fine of $100 and the costs, a total of $106.25, in one case. He pleaded guilty on a second charge for the same offense and entered a plea for leniency. Judge Hines postponed the case for consideration.

The first prosecution in the enforcement of the ordinance requiring awnings to be seven feet above the pavements was made, the management of the Meyer's Department store appearing as defendants. The company was found guilty and was fined $3 and the costs.

Eugene Kirkpatrick, a drunk and disorderly negro, was fined $5 plus the costs for the offense, which is decidedly uncommon in the annals of the police court nowadays.

Alonzo Martin, colored, was given four months on the city streets for larceny.

Swimming Record Made At Wilmington.

Wilmington, July 15.—The remarkable feat of Carl Gibbs, who swam from Mansonboro Inlet to Moore's Inlet, a distance of something over three miles, in the time of exactly two hours, one day this week, has served to refresh the memories of some of the older inhabitants and calls forth the accomplishments of several other mighty swimmers in the past.

Years ago a Norwegian by the name of Otto, who was connected with the fishing fleet at Wrightsville Beach, made a longer swim than Mr. Gibbs', although no time was taken. Otto swam from Masonboro Inlet into the surf and northward along the beach until he reached Moore's inlet, through which he entered Banks Channel, continuing until the trestle was reached.

Another record swim in the annals of the beach was made by Geo. Parsley, formerly of this city, a number of years ago. Mr. Parsley at that time was only 15 years of age. He swam a distance of three and one-half miles in Banks Channel, making the last half mile against the tide. Mr. Parsley used the double over-hand stroke from the time he entered the water until he came out. His time was not taken.

Clarence Poe's Book to Be Issued.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, July 15.—The many admirers of Editor Clarence H. Poe, of the Progressive Farmer, are glad to learn that he has placed with Doubleday, Page & Co. the publication in the late fall of his Oriental Travel book which will probably be issued with the title, "Where Half the World is Waking Up." There will be the sub-title "The Old and New Japan, China and Philippines and India Reported with Especial Reference to American Conditions." It is to be a ten thousand edition. While in Washington Mr. Poe secured from Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, the Massachusetts historian, a promise to attend the annual meeting of the North Carolina Literary and Historical Association this fall provided a date acceptable to Senator Lodge can be arranged.

Y. M. C. A. of Raleigh Chartered.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, July 15.—A charter was issued today for the Young Men's Christian Association of Raleigh, C. J. Hunter, A. A. Thompson, N. B. Broughton, Josephus Daniels and W. H. Williamson being the incorporators. The company has no capital stock. It is to carry out Raleigh movement for the erection of a $75,000 Association building. A site at the corner of Edenton and Wilmington streets has already been procured. However, it is said that there is still a possibility that the location may be changed to the Woman's Club and the Pool site adjacent to Olivia Raney Library on Salisbury street.

FARMERS OBJECT TO PORTION OF MEAT ORDINANCE

Yesterday afternoon a delegation from the Farmers Union appeared before the Board of Commissioners and objected to a portion of the meat inspection ordinance that requires that all cattle and hogs be brought alive to the city for inspection before killing.

J. C. Kennett, J. C. Wharton and R. M. Gladstone asked that the ordinance be so amended that they could kill their hogs and have them inspected after they are killed as it works a hardship on a farmer when he had a fat hog to sell to have to load it into a wagon and bring it here and then face the possibility of having it turned down. They expressed themselves as favoring the inspection ordinance and had no objection to paying for the inspection.

Mr. Johnson, who conducts a butchery near the city, appeared also and asked that if he was required to keep a certain kind of place and have his animals inspected both before and after they were killed that the law remain as it is. He was asked several questions by members of the delegation and stated that he had nothing to do with the passage of the ordinance and while he favored it he would have been content for cattle, etc., to have been inspected after they were killed and if he was allowed to do this then he would have no objection to the farmers doing likewise.

J. R. Moorefield, another butcher also spoke along the same line. Both Mr. Moorefield and Mr. Johnson stated that they would rather buy cattle in Guilford, but were compelled to go elsewhere because of the size of the cattle and the refusal of the owners to sell it at so much per pound rather than at so much per head.

Commissioner Brown then explained the object of the ordinance and the provision objected to by the farmers. He brought out the fact that while it worked a hardship on the farmers to a certain extent it was also beneficial, for if they killed an animal and it was turned down by the inspector the whole carcass had to be thrown away, whereas if it was brought in alive and turned down they could take it back and possibly in a short time it would be all right and could be marketed.

Action on the request was postponed for further consideration, the delegation asking that the matter be carefully considered.

Manasseh's Wickedness and Penitence. 2 Chron. xxxiii:1-20.

Golden Text—Cease to do evil; learn to do well. Isa. 1:16-17.

(1.) Verses 1-2—Whose son was Manasseh and what was the character of his father?

(2.) When the son of a good father becomes a bad man how do you account for it?

(3.) To what extent may good parents be assurod that their children will also be good?

(4.) What scriptural or philosophical ground is there for the belief, that children may be so trained that they will certainly be Christians?

(5.) Upon wnich depends most the character of children, the father or the mother?

(6.) Verses 3-5—In what particular respect did Manasseh sin against God?

(7.) That land was rife with idolatry, and God made strict laws against it; why did he do so?

8.) What were in those days the grave evils of idolatry?

(9.) What habits to-day, among Christian people, are equivalent to dolatry?

(10.) What are the results of present day idolatrous habits?

(11.) Verses 6-7—What is meant by "enchantments, familiar spirits and wizards?"

(12.) Why does the Bible forbid use of all such occult things as mentioned in verse six?

(13.) How do you class palmistry, looking into the tea-cup for signs, thirteen sitting at the table, unlucky Friday and similar "signs?"

(14.) How do you estimate a witch, or a wizard, that is a bad person supposed to have the power of exercising, mentally, an evil influence upon another?

(15.) What is your estimate of those that have "familiar spirits," persons who claim to communicate with the spirits of the dead?

(16.) Verse 8—How long did God say that the Israelites should possess the land of Canaan, and on what conditions?

(17.) Which of God's promises if any, are absolute or unconditioned?

(18.) Verses 9-10—When good people become degenerate, are they or not generally worse than those who have always been bad?

(19.) How did God probably speak to Manasseh and his people, and how does God speak to sinners to-day?

(20.) Verse 11—God is here said to have brought the army of the king of Assyria to war with Israel, and to take Manasseh prisoner as a result of his sin. Does God in these days punish sin in any such material way?

(21.) Verses 12-20—What is the general effect of punishment upon sinners?

(22.) Why did not Manasseh know that the Lord was God before his punishment and repentance?

(23.) God freely forgave Manasseh the moment he repented; does He always act the same way with sinners?

(24.) Were all the effects of Manasseh's sins blotted out, as well as the sins themselves? (This is one of the questions that may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

INVENT A "SLOGAN"

There is big money in "slogans" nowadays, so they say. Fame and fortune await the discoverer of a "slogan." Everybody has "slogan" on the brain. The "high class" the "low class," the daily and the Sunday are out for "slogans." You might as well get into the game.

A "slogan" is a war cry; it is the thrilling and imperious summons which gathers together in one band against the invader all clans of the Highlands in Bonnie Scotland. When you hear the "slogan" you are lifted from your boots and there is a combination of goose flesh and patriotism which is as a flash to a keg of powder. It takes a "slogan" and the bagpipes to make a blood-thirsty villian out of the erstwhile peaceful Highlander.

And now the "slogan" is put to further test as an inspiration to bargaining and selling. This in no way lessons its efficiency in the land of its supremacy. A good thing is always copied. At any rate it is war-cries now which the advertising department is after. The publicity departments of the great enterprises seek a war-cry. All that which is to attract custom, or patronage or subscription is invited under the head of the adopted slogan or war-cry. This extends also to churches, assemblies and conventions of all kinds. Each much have a slogan or rallying cry to gather in the multitudes.

There is money and crowds in slogans these days. Hundreds of slogans are needed and invented. Slogans for publication, slogans for the fence space where advertisements are pictured, slogans for the fair grounds, for the parade, for the picnic, slogans for every commodity manufactured.

Put on your thinking cap, slogans for hosiery, for shoe leather, for articles of raiment; slogans for phonographs, automobiles and refrigerators; slogans for beef, flour, canned stuffs and sweets; slogans for keen blades, for face cream, catsup and crackers; slogans for adding pens and typewriters; slogans for heat, light, power, ammunition and extracts; slogans for angelus players and gold, silver and ornaments.

There is a market for "slogans." There are standing invitations in popular magazines for "slogans" suited to policy and need. The spectacular in electric illumination heralds prizes for a long and practical list of wares desirous of adopting a war-cry. The keen wits and pens of the country are turning from legitimate scribbling and poesy to the manufacture or evolution of a paying rally call. Slogans as seen in the street car cards have paid their discoverers will. When you want a thousand dollars in a speedy and legitimate endeavor, send a ringing slogan into some well-known publicity headquarters.

The trouble is that ideas along the line of slogans are not as plentiful nor as brilliant as one might think. The snap, ginger and apropos are lacking. The effective and enduring complacency of "the smile that won't come off" is a good illustration of invincible and assured superiority; "see that hump" settles the hook. But there is nothing like trying, invent a slogan yourself.

Ohio Man Makes Large Purchase of Land in North Carolina.

Special to Telegram.

Wilmington, July 15.—Following closely the purchase by Congressman William Kent, of California, and ex-Sheriff J. F. Jordan of Greensboro, of 36,000 acres of land in Cumberland and Harnett counties, comes the announcement that Mr. J. A. Harps, a wealthy citizen of Greenfield, Ohio, has bought 6,000 acres of land for colonization purposes near the property acquired by Messrs. Kent and Jordan. All the property is on the Atlantic Coast Line, which is giving the projects all the encouragement possible.

WASHINGTON MAY WITNESS REAL ESTATE SCANDAL

Investigation Will be Made of Charges That Congressmen And Senators Are Speculating in Washington Property Which The Government Desires For a Park.

(By SIDNEY ESPEY.)

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 15.—A scandal of grave proportions may result from the Sisson resolution demanding to know the real owners of the property between the United States capitol building and the Union station, a plot of land that is to be acquired by the government for park purposes.

It has been already ascertained that much of the property has been acquired in the name of some "trustee," and that the real ownership is hidden behind this trusteeship. Representative Sisson and other members of the House scent a plan to "unload" these real estate holdings upon the government at high prices and the report is that members of Congress themselves and public officials have become property owners in the neighborhood in the expectation of profiting at the expense of the Federal treasury.

Two years ago Congress appropriated for the purchase of all the land in question, which covers several city blocks. Until the Union station was erected and it became known that eventually this heretofore neglected portion of the city was to be converted into a mammoth park, much of the land could be bought for a song, comparatively speaking.

The city of Washington had built to the northwest and away from the capitol. Property to the east of the capitol dome had become in consequence less valuable, although when the capitol building was erected it was expected that the city would grow eastward and that its finest residential section would lie in that direction. Hence the big building fronts east and the goddess of Freedom, on the dome, has her face turned away from that section of Washington that has grown the faster.

About five years ago a plan was hatched to erect the Senate office building at a distance some two hundred yards to the northeast of the Senate wing of the capitol. The building was erected. A quarter of a mile to the north the Union station, one of the finest in the country, was built. It was completed a little less than two years ago. In the meantime the idea originated that, with these handsome buildings already erected and the Washington City postoffice in contemplation in the same vicinity the government ought to acquire the several surrounding squares, tear down the unprepossessing buildings thereon, and convert the whole area into a great park, perhaps as a memorial to Abraham Lincoln or some other great American.

Congress accordingly authorized the purchase of the necessary land. It provided that $500,000 per annum might be spent in condemnation proceedings or in outright purchase.

A joint commission was named to negotiate the deals with the holders of the property. Under the original act it was provided that this commission should consist of the Vice President, the then Speaker of the House of Representatives Cannon and Superintendent of Capitol Buildings and Grounds Elliott Woods.

Then came along the Democratic victory at the polls last November, turning the House over to the control of the Democrats. During the short session when the Republicans were still in control of both branches of the national legislature, an amendment was obtained to the appropriation act. This amendment provided that the commission should consist of the Vice President, "Joseph G. Cannon" and the Superintendent of Capitol Buildings and Grounds Woods. The name of "Joseph G. Cannon" (personally) was substituted for the words "Speaker of the House," which Mr. Cannon was destined to soon cease to be.

This change may have been a perfunctory proceeding. The Democrats of the House are calling attention to it, now that an investigation of land titles is to be made. The Sisson resolution directs that the commission shall make no purchases until it has been ascertained whether any public men are now interested in the property to be acquired by purchase or condemnation.

It is reported that while the legislative details were being carried out, there was a rapid fire interchange of ownership in the property that eventually is to belong to the government.

The District records show that many lots are owned by various persons and banking corporations as "trustees" until the House committee is empowered to subpoena these trustees, there is no way to tell for whom they are holding the property. There has been a persistent rumor in Washington for some months that members of the Senate and the House, bent upon speculation, took advantage of the opportunity to buy in the land, knowing from the way the Congressional wind was blowing that before long the government could be forced to pay a big price for the land it desired.

Representative Sisson now has in his possession a list of these trustees. No member of Congress is mentioned by name, but the multiplicity of holders indicates to Mr. Sisson that there are numerous ways in which public men might have become interested. The resolution demands to know whether any of the holders of the title are related, by blood or marriage, to any member of the House or Senate.

"There is a great deal of suspicion attached to this property," said Mr. Sisson. "If it is unfounded, it is time that the matter should be cleared up. If the suspicions, which many of us have heard repeated, are well founded, then the public is entitled to know that members of Congress have taken advantage of their official position and of their advance knowledge of legislative intentions and are attempting to "unload' on the government at great profit." The Sisson resolution has gone to the House committee on rules, and it is probable that the House will promptly order an investigation of the entire question. It is predicted that sensational disclosures, involving more than one member of Congress and public official will result.

There is ample opportunity in Washington for a member of Congress to speculate in real estate. Senate and House committees consider every session bills to open certain streets and highways or to authorize the purchase of land for park purposes. Whenever the government selects any particular land, there is always a rush among the speculators to acquire title, and even if the government assumes ownership through condemnation the real estate men come out of the deal with profits.

The Sisson resolution opens up a branch of inquiry that is not confined in interest to Washington alone. It is possible that members of Congress from various sections will be discovered as the owners of the property in question. While there may be nothing legally amiss in such a condition of affairs, there is a well defined feeling at the capital that a member of either branch of Congress will make himself amenable to public criticism in the event that he takes advantage of his official knowledge to dabble in real estate for the purchase of which, as a member of Congress, he may have voted or will vote.

The Sisson resolution provides that the investigation of land titles shall be conducted by a select House committee comprised of three Democrats and two Republicans and the investigators will be given the power to compel the various "trustees" to produce evidence tending to show the real owners of the park property wanted by Uncle Sam.

Those Who Take Foley Kidney Pills

For their kidney and bladder ailments, and for annoying urinary irregularities are always grateful both for the quick and permanent relief they afford, and for their tonic and strengthening effect as well. Try Foley Kidney Pills. Howard Gardner.

A man isn't necessarily a fool at 60, but he might as well be for all the influence he can have with men under 30

Hay Fever and Summer Colds

Must be relieved quickly and Foley's Honey and Tar Compound will do it. E. M. Stewart, 1034 Wolfram St., Chicago, writes: "I have been greatly troubled during the hot summer months with Hay Fever and find that by using Foley's Honey and Tar Compound I get great relief." Many others who suffer similarly will be glad to benefit by Mr. Stewart's experience. Howard Gardner.

Go to the busy bee, thou busybody, and learn this lesson: Don't butt in or you may get stung.

Foley Kidney Pills are composed of ingredients specially selected for their corrective, healing, tonic, and stimulating effect upon the kidneys, bladder and urinary passages. They are antiseptic, antilithic and a uric acid solvent. Howard Gardner.

UNITED KINGDOM GROWING IN SIZE

Special to Telegram.

London, July 15.—The fact that the United Kingdom is growing in size yearly instead of shrinking, is proved in the final report of the Royal Commission on Coast Erosion, the Reclamation of Tidal Lands, and Aeforestation, which has now been printed, and will be in the hands of members of Parliament today.

It is estimated that during the last thirty-five years about 6,640 acres have been lost by coast erosion, while 48,000 acres have been reclaimed from the sea. The losses have been chiefly on the open coast, and the gains almost entirely in the tidal estuaries.

Erosion has been most serious on the east coast of England and Ireland, and would have been far more serious but for the extensive works carried out by local authorities. From a national point of view, the report states, the extent of erosion need not be considered alarming, but in order to deal effectively with the situation remedial measures are necessary.

Honest Medicines Versus Fakes.

President Taft's recent message suggesting an amendment to the Pure Food and Drugs law in its relation to Prepared Medicines, does not refer to such standard medicines as Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and Foley's Kidney Pills, both of which are true medicines carefully compounded of ingredients whose medicinal qualities are recognized by the medical profession itself as the best known remedial agents for the diseases they are intended to counteract. For over three decades Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has been a standard remedy for coughs, colds and affections of the throat, chest and lungs for children and for grown persons, and it retains today its pre-eminence above all other preparations of its kind. Foley Kidney Pills are equally effective and meritorious. Howard Gardner.

It may be more blessed to give than to receive, yet some people who live up to that theory go into the hands of a receiver.

KING GEORGE AND KAISER IN ROLE OF PEACEMAKERS

Special to Telegram.

London, July 15.—The late King George went to his grave, known to his people and the world at large as the "Peacemaker," but had he lived much longer he would probably have lost his claim to this title, for while the newspapers at the time of his death expressed fears that his demise would impair the position and influence in the concert of nations, statesmen now say that he left England within appreciable distance of war with Germany, a fact for which the conservative press of England was undoubtedly far more to blame than he.

Now the papers say that the likelihood of war between Germany and England, a war which could not fail to embroil other nations, has diminished by at least fifty per cent.

It cannot be denied that the relaxation of the tension between Germany and Great Britain is altogether phenomenal, and to most people wholly unexpected. It has not been brought about by the diplomats, nor yet the cabinet ministers of the two nations, still less by any of the numerous organiations that have been formed for the promotion of peace, but by the personal efforts of two rulers, King George and the Kaiser, who are cousins. Moreover, it has been accomplished without impairing in any way the entente cordiale between England and France.

The business men and shop keepers of London are balancing their books now that the first six months of the year have passed and the result is not a very pleasing one. Expenses have been larger than ever, to make a show of loyalty in a coronation year costs money and the Americans, who succeeded the Indian nabobs and the English milords as victims of our commercial highwaymen, and who are expected to settle the bills severed London from the itinerary.

We had hoped that anyway they would have come after the coronation, but they did not. They are all over the continent, while poor old London is suffering from an American famine. Comfortably seated in Paris, Berlin, Vienna or Rome they saw the coronation by cinematograph and now they have evidently learned to like those places.

The London hotel keepers and shopkeepers are tearing their hair. One of them told me the coronation was worse for trade than the funeral.

"It has ruined us," he said. "The Americans have been scared away. They won't come at all this year, perhaps never. It is all the fault of the newspaper correspondents, who have killed the American goose before it had a chanc to lay its golden eggs."

The florists say they have never had so bad a season. At Covent Garden the supply is far in excess of the demand. Instead of a famine there is a glut. Flowers are ridiculously cheap. The other day I saw a hawker in the street selling Malmaison carnations at three pence each. In other years one could not buy a Malmaison for less than a shilling or eight pence. Flowers are not now used for street decoration. One does not see so many window boxes as of old. As to the great drapers, they are already preparing for the cheap sales that mark the end of the season. Altogether, it is a mistake to imagine that a coronation is good for trade. London tradesmen agree that it is a heavier blow than a general election.

An important new departure in the construction of submarine boats, is being made by the admiralty. On the six 800-ton boats of the "E" class now building a quick-firing gun is to be mounted for the first time.

The mounting of the gun will be almost level with, but below the deck, so that when the weapon is not needed it can easily be stowed away. When steaming on the surface, however, the hinged flaps in the deck can be opened and the gun raised and brought into action.

The development is regarded in the navy as a very important step toward the greater efficiency of the submarine fleet.

A somewhat fussy elderly lady had asked the conductor for a transfer. "You'll be sure to tell me when we come to my transfer station, won't you, conductor?" she asked sweetly.

"Yes'm," said the conductor wearily.

The next time he passed through the car the elderly lady, remembering the ways of conductors, said to him again:

"You won't let me go past my transfer station, will you, conductor? You'll be sure to tell me when I get there, won't you?"

The conductor sighed and looked at her gently and sadly. "I won't have to tell you, lady," he said. "I won't have to tell you, 'cause you'll ask me every time we come to a transfer station if that's where you get off."—Exchange.

PATRIOTS WIND UP SUCCESSFUL SERIES OF GAMES

Took Three Games From Greenville in Easy Style—Yesterday's Score 3 to 2—Dick Smith Put Out of Game—Bussey Knocked Home Run.

From the Greenville point of view Bussey was the hero of yesterday's game while Manager Dick Smith was the villian. The former swatted the sphere so hard that it struck on the top of the right field fence and bounded over allowing him to trot contentedly around the bases. The latter raised a rumpus with Umpire Nugent in the sixth when he called him out at second and was put out of the game and later out of the grounds.

From the Greensboro point of view Ware must be given a goodly amount of credit for the victory, the third over the Spinners, for in addition to his driving out the fly that brought in two runs, aided materially, however, by a dumb play by the Greenville short stop, his pegging to second prevented several Greenville men from scoring as on several occasions two hits came in the same inning and had his pegging been at fault the runs would have been at least two more on the wrong side.

Eldridge never got in any close holes, however, and but five chances were offered the outfield. He fanned seven men. He began his game by issuing a pass to the first man who faced him. No man passed second except the two that scored. In the third inning after three balls and two strikes had been called on Bussey, the first man up, he slammed the sphere to right fieldfence. The horsehide struck squarely and bounded over allowing the little twirler to complete the circuit. However, Rube fanned him his other times at bat. In the sixth Greenville added another score. Sharpe singled and stole second. Hoey fanned. Manager Smith singled and Sharpe scored before the ball could be returned. Smith tried to purloin second and was caught by Doyle. Smith got mad with his Umps and was put out. He kept mouthing and was told to leave the grounds, the crowd diverting their attention to the irate manager of the Spinners, hissing him as he left the grounds.

Greensboro's scores were made in the fourth inning. Doak went out third to first. Clapp singled, Loman following. Carroll hit to left field and Smith errored when the ball bounded into his hands. Clapp crossing the plate and Lowman going to third and Carroll to second. Ware hit a fly back of short who stood still and allowed center and left to run for it. Neither got hold of it in time to prevent Loman and Carroll from touching the rubber. Eldridge went out pitcher to first. Rickard flew out to left. After this but three hits were secured and but one man passed second. In the seventh Rickard and Doyle singled, advancing Rickard to third. When Kite threw to second to catch Doyle Rickard attempted to score, but Taquer met the ball and sent it spinning back, Kite tagging Rickard.

Doyle led the batting, getting three hits out of four trips to the plate, one being for two sacks. Every man, except Doak and Eldridge, found Bussey for a single. Loman made a sensational running catch in right garden when he robbed Taquer of a hit. In the eighth a pretty double by Greenville retired the Patriots and doubtless prevented another score.

RED SOX TOOK GAME FROM HORNETS

Spartanburg, S. C., July 15.—Lavals Red Sox won probably the most exciting and interesting game of the season from the Hornets 11 to 4. The score was not so close but everybody enjoyed it. Manager Cross of the visitors protested the game at the beginning of the fourth on the ground that play had been called over 30 minutes on account of the rain at the end of the third. Hankie lasted about three innings, Vanpelt was better but went bad in the seventh. Ferrell was uniformly good all the way through.

DOYLE'S MEN TO CHARLOTTE; THEN HERE FOR WINSTON

After having captured seven out of the last nine games played the Patriots will leave tomorrow for Charlotte for a series of three games with the Hornets. Heretofore they have gobbled up two out of each series of three games played with the Hornets and are confident of doing as good this trip. The last three days this week Doyle will be at home to Clancy's Twins and the fans will begin tomorrow preparing to see each of the three games. In the last series of four games the Patriots failed to get a smell and are coming home with blood in their eyes. While the Patriots are in Charlotte Dick Smith's Spinners will be in Winston and it is hoped that they will be able to come back. At the same time Spartanburg will be in Anderson.

RALEIGH PASTOR IS CALLED TO UNIVERSITY IN TENNESSEE

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, July 15.—A call to the presidency of Union University, Jackson, Tenn., has come to Rev. A. J. Moncrief, pastor of Tabernacle Baptist church, this city, and the officers of the church and members of the congregation are apprehensive that he will either accept this position or the call to one or another of three or four calls to larger congregations in other cities. Where the other calls are from is not made public. He is now in Clinton holding a series of meetings. He has been pastor of the Tabernacle about three years and has been quite successful.

ATTACKED WIFE'S COMPANION IN MOVING AUTOMOBILE.

New Orleans, July 15.—Leaping into a fast moving automobile in which his wife was riding with another man, A. M. Houston, a railroad switchman, held ont othe fender of the car with one hand and with the other inflicted knife wounds on W. A. Covington, owner of a local garage, last night, which in all probability will prove fatal. Covington was stabbed twice near the heart and his throat was laid open by a deep gash. Houston who surrendered to the authorities, would say nothing further than that he believed he was justified in his act. Covington is a married man.

FIVE PARDONS ARE GRANTED BY GOVERNOR

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, July 15.—Five pardons were issued today by Governor Kitchin. The most notable is for James S. Beckwith, of Fayetteville, a young man of prominent family, being a nephew of B. Q. Beckwith, chairman of the State Board of Internal improvements, he being pardoned from eight months sentence to the Cumberland county jail for seriously shooting a collector for a furniture store there with whom he had a quarrel in which the furniture man applied the vilest epithets. The collector has since recovered and left the state and the governor gives as reasons for the pardon the youth and good character of the prisoner and the fact that he reported to the sheriff a plot of prisoners to break jail.

Hillman High is pardoned from six years sentenee in Wake county for forgery because of failure of his eye seight and other serious afflictions; Barnie and Corbitt Hartie, Rockingham county, are pardoned from two years each for larceny because they seem to have been induced to break into a store by an older man, they being mere boys; Arthur Huntley, Guilford, gets a pardon from six months for robbery because the victim believes now that Huntley had nothing to do with the assault and robbery, but that he was merely aiding him when he recovered consciousness after the attack; William Henry Alston, Halifax county, gets a pardon from four years for larceny because it now appears that he intended to take only temporarily a pair of $5 pants,

Assessment of C., C. & O. Railroad.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, July 15.—E. F. Watson, of Yancey county and D. E. Hutchins, of Marion, were here today for a conference with the corporation commission concerning the tax assesment made by the commission against the Carolina, Clinchfield and Ohio Railroad Co. It is learned that the commission has about completed the reassessment of all the railroad property in the State with the exception of some little issues still open as to the Seaboard Air Line assessment. The detail announcement of the new assessments may be expected within the next few days. There is a very material increase over the assessments in force for the past four years.

SUMMERFIELD WON CONTEST FOR COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL

The County Board of Education yesterday, after hearing delegations from various sections of the county decided to locate the new rural High School at Summerfield, the farm life school to become a part of the High School. Other places asking for the high school were Gibsonville, McLeansville, Stokesdale and Oak Hill. Summerfield offered a $4,000 building, $2,000 in money, 11 1/2 acres of land for farm demonstration work. Of the money more than $1,500 had already been subscribed.

The board met in the court house yesterday morning, the various delegations almost filling the court room. Each delegation was given 25 minutes to present its claims.

Oak Hill offered a $4,000 building on three acres of land, and the special tax. Stokesdale offered an $1,800 building, a local tax of $1,213 and 17 acres of land for the school. Gibsonville offered a $5,000 building on three acres on land and a $2,500 special tax.

The claims of each delegation were presented and the board went into executive session to consider the applications. It was finally decided that the school would be of the greatest benefit if placed at Summerfield.

Guy Murray Died in Washington City.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Murray, who live east of the city, received a message yesterday informing them of the death of their son, Guy Murray, in Washington City. The deceased had been ill for several weeks, but his condition was not considered as critical. He was 35 years of age and had resided in Washington for five years.

The remains will reach the city this afternoon or tomorrow morning and be carried to Cross Roads church, Alamance county, for burial Monday. The funeral services will be conducted by Rev. J. W. Goodman.
